ACCOMMODATIONS: The lesson can be accommodated to those students who learn at a slower pace by giving them more time to work on the worksheet based on the book. By giving out a worksheet, students are able to create their own unique responses and reflect on what they have personally come to learn. Also, the reading done in a group setting can be beneficial for English language learners as well because you will be there to guide them through unfamiliar vocabulary and sentence structure. The format of the book itself is a step-by-step reading process; the number at the top of the front cover indicates the reading level and appropriateness for the grade.
